CAPTAIN'S BLOG

Greetings from the Center Seat! Lots of stuff has happened since our last issue.

Our RPG came to an interesting and unexpected end, but never fear, a new one is just beginning! Find out how ADMIRAL Dave Jamison handles a crisis with the Klingons! Discover Romulan Treachery! (as if there is any other kind!) Find out just what retirement benefits await Admiral Hoolihan! And more! Stay Tuned!

In other areas, I attended the Region 7 conference in September, held in Baltimore, MD (just 20 minutes from my house). We covered a number of topics; the issue of cyberbullying, or folks being verbally abusive on the net; the issue of attendance at multi-chapter events in the region, and the topic of how to recruit new members. We also had a panel on how to put on a conference, as well as presentations from two of the Candidates for Commander, Starfleet. We also had a very nice banquet, and lots of good time just hanging with each other.

Did you know that, a group of four people, standing up and talking, will turn completely around in a circle after an hour and a half of conversation? Speaking of Commander, Starfleet, the election ends on November 15th, with the new CS taking office on 1/1. Our own alumnus, Joost Ueffing, is one of the candidates. The other three are Sal Lizard, Emmett Plant, and Wade Olson.

Next year will be an exciting one for Trek Fans! The new movie comes out on Christmas Day, 2008. It will be an Original Series movie, with entirely new actors taking on familiar roles:

Captain Kirk - Chris Pine
Spock - Zachary Quinto
Dr. McCoy - Karl Urban
LT Uhura - Zoe Saldana
LT Sulu - John Cho
Scotty - Simon Pegg
Chekov - Anton Yelchin
Eric Bana plays the villain, part not yet named.

Some of these actors I know, others I don't. (Feel free to post opinions or comments). The filming starts next month.

Matrix elections are coming up! The nomination part is Nov 1 - 15, the debate/question period 16 - 30 Nov, and the actual election is Dec 1 - 10, with the new CO taking charge on 1/1. More info will be forthcoming by the time you read this.

We have a bunch of folks taking courses at our newly revised and improved Internet Starfleet Academy. Check it out!

Oh, one other piece of information. I've been asked when my term as Regional Coordinator ends. It finishes up on August 15, 2008, and I have no intention of running again. I've done my time in the barrel, someone else can take a turn!

That's about it for now! Until next time!

CO Joe

MEET THE MATRIX

The USS Matrix, NCC-72296 is a Gabriel Class Shuttle Carrier, designed by Doctor James Lythgoe and commissioned by Starfleet on 9711.18. The Matrix is the third ship of Doctor Lythgoe's Gabriel Class, the second oldest remaining in service.

Science Division

The Science Division houses 4 laboratories. Lab 1 is for all matters related to Biology including Zoology as well as any Chemistry related work that needs to be carried out. This is situated next to our cryo-store for easy access to any preserved samples (also a good place to cool our homemade brew!). Lab 2 is designated for use by our Cybernetics and Borg Technology sections. It also has the necessary containment fields used when working with nanites. Lab 3, is smaller and is situated in-between Lab 2 and the aCSO's office. It is used for the analysis of all data received by the ship's probes and sensors. Lab 4 is our main computer science lab. We have a total of 5 offices, including the CSO and aCSO as well as a Duty Officer's office which houses information on all current projects/experiments being undertaken. All sensor data initially comes through this room before being transferred on.

Our state of the art briefing room enables all of the senior science division staff to meet and discuss or for the CSO/aCSO to brief the command crew.

MEET THE CREW

Each Newsletter, we will be featuring a different member of the crew of USS Matrix...well, sort of:

Targs Aboard the USS Matrix

This is how Captain Ros Haywood looks first thing in the morning...OK, you can stop laughing now. Actually, the picture is of Molly O'Brien's Toby the Targ (whereabouts unknown). As some of you may be aware, there are several targs aboard the USS Matrix. For those of you not familiar with targs, this is part of the article at memory-alpha.org: "The targ is a herding animal native to Qo'noS, comparable in form to a Terran boar but with spikes on its back. They are usually dark brown, although some are spotted. Targs are generally regarded as "vicious and destructive" animals. Klingons keep domesticated targs as pets and livestock, and hunt wild targs for sport. The meat and heart of the targ is eaten, while their shoulder fat is used to make var'Hama candles..." Worf had a pet targ when he was a child.

Terabyte the Targ is one of the latest litter produced by CO Joe's targs, Koloth and nlvQa. She shares her living quarters with her sister, Hattie. The name came about because CO Joe was about to go on RL vacation, and Hattie nearly became a Home Alone Targ until then-Commander Haywood invited her to stay aboard the USS Albion (and sample such delights as rokeg blood cheesecake, the CMO's speciality).

Jalfrezi the Targ, from the same litter, owns LT Commander Troyski. B'Org the Targ, while living as FCAPT Matt Haley's pet, had a fight with his borgified pet dog, and now exists as the universe's only borg targ...

Do you know of any other targs in residence aboard the Matrix? If so...RUN !!!!!

If you want to learn more about targs in general, there is an MU course called 'Targ Expert', based on a worksheet written by CO Joe, with test written by Captain Ros Haywood.

SHIP'S LOG

RPGS PAST AND PRESENT

The Command Staff of the USS Matrix have decided to take our creative writing in a new direction.

A position has been created for a coordinator of our writing efforts. This individual will be the GM (Games Master) for all RPGs and will coordinate the various plotlines and short stories. Commander Dave Jamison has been appointed as this 'RPG Chief' – he will be the 'go-to guy' for the entire crew.

For instance, say you have an idea for an RPG. You contact Dave, and let him know. If he thinks we can run with it, he starts off the story in RPG form, and posts the ground rules for each game (ie special skills/abilities allowed etc). Please note: all RPGs will from now on be played on the RPG list so, if you are not subscribed, please do so now, or you won't be able to join in!

You can make TWO posts in 24 hours; this gives other crewmembers in different timezones a chance to reply, while at the same time keeps the action going. It is hoped that, by adding such structure to our creative writing – RPGs in particular – the stories will become more exciting and enjoyable for the crew.

[Weekly updates on the main list to keep the rest of the crew informed have been postponed during the current California wildfire crisis, although the RPG itself continues to run – Editor]

There have been several requests to finish the 2005/6 RPG 'Borg N Beans'. Dave is currently working on this and trying to find a way to get the story going again by linking seamlessly between the plots-that-were and posts-that-will-be. The posts so far have been chapterised and put in PDF format by Capt Haywood. The RPG "All Hallow's Eve" is also being investigated as a potential restarter.

By the time you read this, however, a new RPG will have started: A Stitch In Time, based on an idea by FCapt Matt Haley about time travel and the Matrix. It is anticipated that this RPG will last from 12th October to 15th November, thus allowing all crew to devote their attentions to the CO Election debates.

Remember the Prime Directive:

HAVE FUN!

Greetings to all! Just to follow up on what Captain Haywood previously mentioned, I volunteered for this job for a very simple reason, I love to write!

I truly believe this is something each and every one of us can have some real fun with. Does that mean you must spend precious hours toiling over a post for the RPG? No, not at all! As a matter of fact, a good RPG post is about a few paragraphs or less of information.

Some of you may even remember the "paintball" wars that were occurring throughout the ship some time ago or most recently when a few of us were in the mess hall discussing the benefits of Romulan Ale. ;-)

My point is this, you do not have to be a published author, or a Rhodes Scholar to participate, all that is required is a willingness to jump in and be part of the fun.

I can still remember the hesitation I initially had to jump in when RPG's were in full swing aboard the Matrix. My goal is to get us back to that point in time when there was a great deal of participation!

Another of my intended goals is to get a jump start on creative writing once again; we had some very good stories in the past and I see no reason we can't jump start some of the enthusiasm we all once shared.

Although all of the writing will be on the RPG list, my plan is to incorporate a weekly update on the list so the entire crew knows what adventure currently is taking place.

So to sum things up, please subscribe to the RPG list, jump in and make some posts, send me some ideas for future RPG's and stories you would like to see or collaborate on, and finally just get involved!

It had been brought to my attention in the past by a crewmate who felt the Matrix was dead and on life support! Ask yourself these questions, why did I join the Matrix? What do I want out of the Matrix?

I don't believe we are all here just to be on a list and "think" about Star Trek, we are all here because of the one thing we have in common, our admiration for Star Trek. See you on the RPG list.

Commander Dave Jamison.
RPG Chief
